THE VIRGINIA DELEGATION TO

THE NORTH CAROLINA STATE FAIR. -Tae Richmond Whig in its notice of the report of the Virginia Agricultural Society quotes as follows: The delegates to the Fairs of this State, and also to the North Carolina Fair, report their courteous receptions, and the kindly feelings tha were expressed towards our own Sciety. The delegation to North Carolina were especially pleased with their cordial treatment and the manifestation of the neighborly good feeling which exists between the people of these two States. POST OFFICE HOURS.—There is very considerable complaint among business men and others, that the Eastern mail, after its arrival at a quarter past eight at night is only kept open ter minutes. That mail is of very considerable importance to a great many, and to get it the night of its arrival. persons are compelled to be on the ground before hand and watch the designated minutes. Raleigh covers a good deal of ground. Time ought to be allowed for the citizens to reach the office. Give them balf an hour HYMENIAL. - Married at the residence of the bride's mother in Wilson. N. C., Mr. J. E. Clarke, the popular cotton buyer of Gwathmey & Co., New York, to Miss Sue Williams. We are assured that the bride is a wife of whom any one would be proud and our acquaintance with the groom kind husband. Our congratulations are extended.

Now please look in department 'L" of the published rremium list of the N. C. Agricultural Society, and ee that J. C. S. Lumsden was awarded the silver medal for the best display of stoves of all kinds, and the premium for the best cook stove with wood and also the premium for the best cook stové with coal.

FINE COTTON. -Mr. S. D. Harrison has shown us several specimens of the Watts cotton. It grows erect with very short branches, and bolls wherever it is possible for one to be placed. Mr. Harrison is confident this cotton will produce three bales to the acre. He is agent for the sale of HOUSEKEEPERS ATTENTION !-Look at the advertisement of the Golden Butter Compound which promises to make you good butter at a cost of not over 5 cents a pound. It is said to be a genuine article and the production as good as from the richest cream, which is reasonable, as the compound contains all the elementary principles of cream.

We are pleased to learn from one of our most prominent citizens a deserving compliment to our efficient Chief ot Police, J. W. Lee-a friend of the citizen during the late State Fair lost a watch and chain, the recovery of the same was entrusted to Mr. Lee, and in twenty-four hours the recovery RALEIGH & GASTON RAILBOAD.

A meeting of the Directory takes place this afternoon in the office of the meeting is to elect a Superintendent. A number of very competent gentlemen will present their claims. The company will be well served by the selection of any one of them. Song of the "Sentinel" under

That our bladder is bust an the gas
oogin out,
An onless we can mennage in some way
to stop it,
Why the thing's a gone coon an we

Newspaper advertising impels inquiry, and when the article offered is of good quality and of fair price, the natural result is increased sales.

DANCING SCHOOL.-Mr. Slater's school opens on Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock. See advertisement in this day's issue.

Yesterday was the first of the genuine Indian Summer days, with a soft smoky atmosphere, and early in the day, before the dust had been aroused. of most delicious temperature. We envy those who could breathe such an atmosphere uncontaminated by the dust of the city.

Cotton.—Receipts yesterday were quite light, but market well sustained at 12%. Farmers just now are putting in wheat, and attending to other farm operation which partly accounts for the falling off in receipts. Others again are in a condition to wait for higher prices.

The season for "pairing" having arrived; as we notice daily young couples "pairing" off and going on their bridal tours "We have put in an ap-Pear-ance by offering to those interested, the finest pears of the season just arrived from California; call and try them.

A. D. ROYSTER & BRO.

See advertisement of B. L. Bingham & Co., Cotton Consignor's agents. This firm is giving the most abundant satisfaction, obtaining the fullest prices for all cotton entrusted to their hands. There is no more energetic, prompt and reliable house in the city, and they are well worthy the patronage they are so liberally

Raleigh presents a dull aspect in most particulars. It is suffering a sort of collapse after the excitement of the Fair and the circus. Few strangers in town, and the hotels have a somewhat sombre air. Among those in town yesterday we notice Mr. W. McL. McKay and John D Williams, Esq., of Fayetteville, and Dr. W. W. Greene, of Franklinton.

COMPETITIVE EXAMINATION .- After a rigid examination and severe contest with five other meritorious competitors, Master Joseph Batchelor, son of J. B. Batchelor, Esq., was declared worthy to be recommended for a commission to West Point. From the talent and excellent character of the young gentleman, we feel sure he will do honor to his commission.

IMPROVEMENT .- We add another to the many improvements going on in and around the city. Mr. P. J. Wray & Co. have just begun operations in their new building the business of all kinds of lumber dressing, planing. moulding, mill-wrighting, &c., &c. The are supplied with Wykoff & McCallum's 20-horse power engines, and in a day or two will be n full activity.

FAST MAIL.-The fast trains North having proved a success, one is to be put on between Washington and New Orleans, passing by Greensboro and Charlotte. Cannot a spur be put on the trains between Goldsboro and Greensboro, so as to make the pace a little more lively? It puts one much relieves our conscience when we here in mind of the gait of the old Raleigh assert that we know he will make a and Gaston Raid, when 15 hours between Raleigh and Gaston was thought fast time.

SUPERINTENDENCY OF THE R. & G. R. R .- No appointment has yet been made to fill the vacancy occasioned by tht resignation of Capt. A. B. Andrews. Capt. J. S. Joyner, of Franklinton, is prominently named in connection with the place. He has the endorsement of the most prominent merchants here and at Franklinton, Henderson and other points on the road. So favorably is he spoken of that the company might be wise to secure his services.

THE NEW POSTOFFICE. - In speaking of this really fine building yesterday we were not then aware of a variation from the original plan, which promises to be a fatal defect. It was originally designed that nothing but stone, bric's and iron should enter into the structure, so that it might be considered absolutely fireproof, and so far as work has been done, the design has been adhered to. But now, orders have been given, and preparatic as made, to lay all the joists from the second story up with wood, instea d of iron, thus introducing a peris hable material into an otherwise indestructible building. Let this be stopped before it is too late. The protest against it is universal. Since the appropriation has been mr .de, we have a right to ask that the original plans becarried out.

"SIR," said a haughty dandy, re-fusing the change for his bill, "keep that; I never take change from a tailor." "A sign of conscience, I see," was the reply, "for a tailor made you."

The Superintendent of an Insane Asylum in France, while passing through the wards recently, noticed a man of very inoffensive appearance sobbing in his bed like a child. "My poor friend, what is the matter?" inquired the physician. "Ah, sir," said the lunatic, "my maximelighbor has played me a sad trick. He concealed my knife, and I have been looking for it two hours without being able to find it." Then he added, with a smile, child-like and bland, "But I will play him a fine trick in return." "That's all right," said the Superintendent, consolingly patting him on the shoulder as he passed on. Two days later the Superintendent chanced to walk through the same room early in the morning. His insane friend stopped him, and said, "I have found my knife again, and have played that trick on my comrade, as I told you I should do." "How is that?" "While he was saleep I hid his head." This man is very crazy, thought the Superintendent; then he asked, "And what did you do with it then?" "I put it in the linen closet: but you They are now introducing steam machinery for washing dishes, and also for cleaning boots, knives and forks. It will be a sad day for young America when steam machinery is introduced for spanking children, and it looks as if such a desideratura is not very far distant.

WATER STREET, Portsmouth, Virginia,

Every evening it was his custom to take a stroil after tea to visit some old friends of the name of Tate, who lived in the next street. Before leaving the house he would open the door of the dining room where we used to sit, and would say aloud, "only going down to Tate's." Now it happened one evening that Polly's cage door was left open. We sometimes let him walk about the room when he was very good, as a treat. This evening we suddenly missed him from the room and could not think where he had gone. We all set to work and searched the house high and low; no Polly could we find. Bo at last my father left, as usual, to pay his visit to our neighbor's, leaving us still looking for our pet. What was his surprise upon turning the corner of the street to see Polly quietly waddling down the middle of the road. "Why Polly," said he, "where are you going?" Upon which Master Poll cocked his imputaent little head on one side, looked up and said, "Only going down to Tate's." AND DEALERS IN Coal, Hay. Corn, Oata, Lime, Cement, dc., oc 29-6m

A singular case is reported from Brooklyn. A woman was badly frightened by a cat, some months previous to the birth of her child. That child proved to be a girl, and is now eighteen years of age and mar-ried. During her girlhood, she gave no evidence of being affected by her mother's fright, excepting, indeed, a propensity to chase mice, and occa-ionally to sit on the backyard fence al.'d yowl a little on moonlight nights, but, strange to relate, since the birth of her own baby, she always lifts it out o. the crib by the back of its neck with her teeth.

The stary is told of a New Bedfor elergyman', now dead, who was asked by an Ir. shman to marry him. Why, Pat," said the clergyman, what have come to me for? didn't you go to the Catholic priest?'
"I've been to h.im, yer honor," said Pat, "and he told me to go the devil, and I've come."

A facetious boy saked one of his playmates why a hard ware dealer was like a bootmaker? The latter, some-what puzzled, gave it 11p. "Why." what puzzled, gave it 11p. said the other, "because one nails, and the other nailed the soles.'

BRISTOW AND JEWELL, despite their threats have welcomed Chandler into the cabinet as a brother. It is a difficult thing to drive men out of a fat place.

THE Richmond Enquirer has changed hands, Messrs. M. P. Handy, James H. Beal, Jr., and W. Charles J. Jones, becoming the purchasers. Mr. Handy is well-known to journalism, having had an honorable experience in Richmond, and of late on the New York Tribune. The other gentlemen, we believe, are from New York. We wish the new enterprise much success.

THE Philapelphia Times says full twenty thorsand of the most conscientious Republicans in Pennsylvania will vote for Pershing, the Democratic candidate, and twenty thousand will not vote at all. If these is this considentiousness among them, and if honesty is their purpose and reform their object, these there can be no well grounded apprehension for the results of the Presidential election. The same causes which make them halt now will keep them alouf from the support of the administration party quite as corrupt as a whole as Pennsylvania is as a

A possible clew has been discovered to the whereabouts of Charley Ross. A writer in the Washington Chronicle draws this pitiable picture of the father of the lost child :

The public never has known, and never will know, the terrible experiman is struggling. Only a few know how continuous and insupportable is the burden he bears; how his feelings are played upon, his time taken up with unrewarded toil, his impoverished means made the object of blackmailer's greed; his business ruined, himself poor, his whole time given up to the search of his missing. boy; to hope against hope; to have a glimmer of light one day and to be buried in the darkness of despair the next: to see the worst side of human nature; to be called suddenly to take long and tiresome journeys, which end in nothing; to know no rest nor peace; to suffer the tortures of unending suspense—these are some of the sufferings of this man.

THE ST. LOUIS CONVENTION.

A rail road convention is about to meet in St. Louis, the principal object of which seems to be to commit the representatives of the most important rail road interests to the support of Tom Scott's Texas and Pacific Rail Road subsidy scheme. Scott is untiring in his efforts to get control of a line from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and if he can succeed in deluding Congress into his views, he will have it. For his control already extends from New York to Fort Worth, and if the government will give him the aid he asks, the rest of the distance 1,450 miles to San Diego will be easily completed, and he will then become the most absolute rail-way monarch in the world.

But with his personal ambition we have nothing to do. He may become as absolute as the Autocrat of Russia provided his ambition is open and honest.

What we have to complain of and guard against is the snare he lave for the credulous, and the irreparable injury he threatens to Southern interests by the fraudulent pretext that this grand scheme is intended for the benefit of the South. That such a scheme, if an honest one, would meet the most hearty encouragement from the whole South is apparent. It would enlist the energies of all classes of men. It would draw out capital from its most secret recesses. It would in-lock the doors which would open to the contrary, it will grow wider and with a small chain pendent between her also the fabulous riches of the Orient. But there is no such promise in Scott's plans. It is all a snare and a delusion. The Texas and Pacific is in no sense a Southern the bars to the admission of road, but really a Southwestern extension of the Pennsylvania and connecting lines which are northern roads, with northern officers and northern terminus. Let any one look at the maps so liberally distributed, and be will see that while the eastern fermions of the Southern Pacific approaches just near enough to the Mississippi to tantalize Vicksburg, Memphis or New Orleans with the prospect of either one or the other being the terminus, it suddenly and impudently bears off to the North-East to Cairo, or to St. Louis; and bears the precious fruits of its construction to the exclusive enrichment of northern lines and northern cities, while those Southern cities look on in impotent chagrin when they see their prospects so suddenly dashed, and a fatal scheme perfected into to the furtherance of which they have been deluded. No. Tom Scott's idea of a Southern Pacific is not what the South wants. We do want the road, we do want the aid of government to put us on a footing with our more fortunate northern brethren. We do want the road to terminuate in our towns. But we do not want Tom Scott's participation in the business. Let our Congress men hold themselves aloof from his bills and his

THE RICHMOND PAGEANT. Space would fail us if we gave vent to those feelings which animated Virginia on Thursday last, and in which we so fully participate that we could make the occasion our own. For, though Virginia gave Jackson birth, can we not also enrol him in our list of dead heroes? Did not North Carolina bear her part in the fights in which Jackson found his fame, and does she not, also, glory in his renown? Truly, Jackson was almost as much a possession of North Carolina as of Virginia. The glorious pageant therefor at Richmond, in honor of the dead hero, was almost as much a matter of interest to North Carolinians as to Virginians. BIT THEILE

It drew thousands from our State to participate in it, and among them hundreds, who shoulder to shoulder with Virginia troops, learned to trust to the inspiration of Jackson's genius, and had been fired by his courage to the same degree of enthusiasm as his own men.

North Carolina holds Jackson's wife and Jackson's child, and holding them, she feels that the fame of Jackson and the memory of his virtues is as dear to her as to Virginia-

THE PENNSYLVANIA ELECTION

The election comes off on Thursday next, and all eves are intent to see the effects of the Ohio contest upon the issue. It is apparent, however, that the people of Pennsylvanta are not so much interested in the question of finance as of honesty. It is a death struggle between the honest men and the rogues. All other issues are insignificant and subordinate, and honest Republicans may be as much interested in the election of Pershing, as they would otherwise be in the success of

But if the contest was put simply upon the financial question, the Democrats might have little to fear from the results of the Ohio election. Even the Tribune admits that it was a drawn battle, the Republicans standing on such a narrow margin of victory that they had little to baast of, and not an inch for relaxation. They must fight to hold what they have gained. In truth, only the majorities in Cincinnati and Cleaveland saved them. If Allen's party are fools, as the Tribune calls them, it is a very respectable minority of that class, among whom men need not be ashamed to stand. COMMERCE OF WILMINGTON.

The Journal calls our attention to the granfying fact that at this time there are thirty-three foreign vessels affoat sailing from various ports in Europe for the port of Wilmington.

The Journal naturally is jubilant at such a recognition of the consequence of Wilmington. And it is an exultation in which the whole State might share, since it is an evidence of a wealth of materials and variety of subjects of exports which few ports, on the Southern Atlantic ports, can claim. The eyes of the far-seeing merchant are directed to this point so insignificant on the map, yet so fruitful in resources, because here he knows his wants can all be supplied. This is but a beginning, however.

vessels of almost all sizes. The navigation of the Cape Fear is ming disarmed of its terrors. Freighters no longer imperil their cargoes by loading outside of the bar. They can come boldly inside, and when all the works are completed, vessels of the largest size can die comfertably alongside the wharves at Wilmington and complete their loading.

And with the glorious prospects of the Carolina Central, and with the facilities already possessed by Wilmington, vessels will not have long to wait for cargoes. There will be enough for all.

We congratulate Wilmington upon her prospects.

Berin the Richmond Dispatch. The Statue and Pedestal.

Even at first sight the statue shows Even at first sight the statue snows us that the sculptor has scorned all trick and mannerism. His work is simple and true. Like all the greatest sculptors, Foley has wisely abstained from representing violent action or bodily excitement. There is poise, and strength, and self-control, most heroic or all virtues in every fine of the calm easy figure. The soldier is standing with his right arm a kimbo The body is not stiff and upright as n self-conscious attitudinizing but it always easily upon the hips. The bared head neither drooping nor thrown back, but turned a little to out excitement into the distance; it is as if he were watching with confidence in his subordinates for the ful-filment of an order already given. The left shoulder is holding the hilt of a sword whose point w thout-bearing any weight is resting lighty upon the top of the low stonewall that symbolizes the heroic name. The tegs encased in military boots, are wonderful in the perfect natural-ness of their attitude and movement. The leg is thrown slightly forward. is bent at the knee and relaxed by the absence of weight upon it. Th right leg comes down straight and strong bearing the burden of the body, but free from every sign of muscular strain or fatigue. The athas moreover the high merit of the turance. It is an attitude not in deed for a second or a minute-but one that a healthy man might maintain for hours without weariness and without essential change. In the treatment of the costume there is the same freedom from con-ventionality on the one hand and from vulgarity on the other. The uniform of a Confederate General is unmistakably expressed, but there is no milliner exaggeration of the details. The coat is buttoned, but it is not stiff with padding nor puffed. It bulges and wrinkles, so as to reveal the figure of a man healthy indeed, but far from athletic. The belt, too, is buckled so loosely as not to dent the waist; it droops comfortably on the left, to show the weight of the scabbard. The boots, the gloves, the chevrons, the army cap that hangs in he crook of the left elbow, all speak of real work and hard service. Every detall is homely, and yet the general effect is graceful and dignified It is the face, however, that is worthiest of study; worthiest, too, of admiration. The lines of that coun-tenance are so dear and so familiar o our remembrance that it would be unfair to demand of a foreign artist. working solely from bad photographs, so perfect a piece of realistic portrat-ture as many a caricaturist could furnish. But the bearing and expression are perfect; the face rises above mere portraiture into the physical type of those peculiarities, both moral and intellectual, that made up the great soul of Jackson. It is not beautiful; no bastard notion of Greek lines has been allowed to change the proportions, to straighten up the ose, to depress the cheek-bones of the hard-featured English face. Yet, without such superficial beauty of feature, the higher beauty of moral force and intellectual vigor has been seized with transcendant skill. There is earnestness in the face, a deep calm of soul, a steadiness of resolution that rises high above excitement. There is tenderness and goodness too. It is the face of a man wise and heroically modest. There is enormous power of will, and of that self-control which passes so easily into the power of controlling others. Such a face will barmonize well with all the traditions of the war and with all his achievements. It will speak to com-ing ages of the high motives under which he led our armies, of the dar-ing sagacity with which he planned and executed our victories. This bronze will thus be a part of our history. It becomes a priceless treasure our people, at once a model of art and a monument of our glory. As we look at it we cannot but feel deep sorrow that the great sculptor died before he saw his work completed. Yet with Foley and with Jackson the last achievement was the greatest. For as Chancellorsville, was to the soldier so is this Jackson to the sculptor—his life's master-piece, sealed and glorifled by death. The statue will stand among statues as Jackson stood among men simple Jackson stood among men. simple, heroic and sublime.

The foundation is composed of heavy blocks dation is composed of heavy blocks of granite in well set masonry, ex-tending five feet below the surface of

The pedestal on which the statue is placed in the centre of a circular platform is 231 feet in diameter of aixspire an enthusiasm which no enterprise of the kind has ever drawn the ever watchful eye of commerce, forth in the South, for it would unand it will not be covered up. On the edge of this circle are placed 32 small fron posts the pedestal itself is modelled om the designs of the sculptor Foley, and is so perfectly proportion-ed that in the beautiful white grantle

The pedestal is composed of four blocks of granite, the and a half feet square and one and a half feet high, cut in two members. On this rest the second base, which is four feet three inches square and two and a half feet high, on which is cut a heavy ogee moulding. The dieblock, which is placed on this double base, is a block of granite three feet three inches square and four feet high. The face of the block on which the inscription is cut is highly polished, and the inscription is made in deeply-cut block-letters which are glided so as to make the inscription legible in contrast with the polished, raised surface on which they are cut. The whole is surmounted by a cap-stone, which is four and a half feet square and one foot three inches high, which is cut with a heavy scotia moulding and an oge wash. The statue is seven feet three inches in height, and with the pedestal, as described, makes a very per-fectly-proportioned monument.

The following will be found of interest by merchants and bankers. We copy it from the New York Journal of Commerce, one of the most carefully edited and reliable papers in our language: Editor of the Journal of Commerce: NEW YORK, October 11, 1875 — Will you please favor us with your deci-sion in the following case: In accordance with the rites of our persus. sion, we were closed on Saturday last, but took the precaution to place a notice on our door stating, "Closed on account of holiday. Any drafts please hold over until Monday." It appears a draft was presented by the National Bank of Commerce for the sum of fifty dollars, but in spite of our notice was protested for the rea son "said p ace being closed for the day." This (Monday) morning our certified clerk was sent, but refused until one dollar and thirty-one cents protest charges was exacted, which to avoid controversy and waste of time, we paid. Will you oblige by stating if protest fees could be collected by law under the above circumstances? Yours respectfully, D. H. A. & Co. To this the Journal replies, that if instead of a certified check, legaltender notes had been tendered to the holder of the obligation, the protest fees could not be exacted. It is time that our notaries understood, if they do not, that Israelites have the right to close their places of business on their recognized holidays, and such a notice, under the circumstances, was quite sufficient to exempt them the costs of protest upon a draft not yet accepted. Acceptances and promissory notes must be provided for beforeland as is done for business paper due on Sunday; but a draft cannot be legally protested for non acceptance because the grawee has his place for business closed upon a holiday commonly recognized by a large body of the people. Story on bille says: "No acceptance can be required, and no presentment for ac-ceptance be regularly made * * * npon any day which is a holiday, or is set apart by the religion of the drawee for religious purposes, such as Saturday, in case of the Jews." Bay-ley on Bills, chap. 7, gives the same

The World of London.

The metropolis of the British Empire, the largest city the world ever saw, covers within fifteen miles radius of Charing Cross, nearly 700 square miles, and numbers within these boundaries 4,000,000 of inhabitants. It comprises 1,000,000 foreign. ers, from every region of the globe. It contains more Jews than the whole f Palestine, more Roman Catholics than Rome itself, more Irish than Dublin, more Scotchmen than Edinday on its waters 1,000 ships and 9,000 illors. Upwards of 120 persons are added to its population daily, or 40,000 yearly, a birth taking place every five minutes and a death every eight minutes. On an average, twenty-eight miles of streets are opened and 9,000 houses built every year. In its postal dis-tricts there is a yearly delivery of 233,000,000 of letters. On the police register there are the names of 120,-000 habitual criminals, increasing by many thousands every year. More than one-third of ail the crime of the country is committed in 1 ondon, or are as many beer-shops and gin-palaces as would, if their fronts were placed side by side, reach from Char-ing Cross to Portsmouth, a distance seventy-three miles, and 38,000 drunkards are annually brought before its magistrates. The shops open on Sunday would form streets sixty miles long. It is estimated that there are above 1,000,000 of the people who are practically heathen, wholly neglecting the ordinances of religion. At least 900 additional churches and chapels would be required for the wants of the people.—Leisure Hours. CUBA .- A Washington correspondent of the Baltimore Sun expresses the opinion that Presidant Grant intends to adopt a more decided policy towards Spain in respect to Cuba-He has only been restrained heretofore from pursuing this course by the representations of Secretary Fish. He will not delay any longer, and vigorous recommendations, looking to the close of the war in that Island, may be expected in the next message. Spain is not able to make resistance, and though she may make a show of fight, nothing will come of it but the permanent loss of the island.— Richmond Whig.

OF HARTFORD. Incorporated in 1846. Total Income during $10,049,413.10.

1874, $20,049,013.10.
Total surplus returnto Policy-holders
during 1874, $3,037,872 83.
Average per cent surplus returned to poltoy-holders in 1874, 40.44 per cent.

This percentage of surplus returned is much greater than that of any other company, and more than twice that of several leading ones. It is the legitimate and inevitable result of care in the selection of risks and high rate of interest received from well-invested assets. As the actual cost of the insurance to the policy-holder is regulated, not by the table rate chared, but by the amount the Company is able to save and return to him from the premium paid, this latier item is of the greatest importance. Manifestly the company which is able to return to its policy-holders the most surplus premiums, furnishes the insurance at the lowest cost. And this, the history of its policies shows the Connected and the company of the continual is actually doing.
